

Senate Bars Paying Allies More Than Gls

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted on the eve of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's Asian tour to cut supplemental allowances for South Korean and Thailand troops fighting in Vietnam.

The action, which could be overturned in a Senate-House conference, came Thursday despite a warning by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., that it could prompt the two countries to quit the war and slow U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

It could stir a strong reaction in South Korea and Thailand, whose leaders frequently have expressed concern about statements and actions of antiwar senators.

Agnew leaves from California Saturday for the Asian visit. He will meet with leaders in South Korea, Thailand, South Vietnam and Taiwan.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, sponsored the amendment, which passed by voice vote after an endorsement from Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

It is aimed at a practice, spotlighted in recent Senate hearings, of giving allied troops larger supplemental allowances than American forces receive for combat. Their overall pay, however, remains far below the U.S. level.

Fulbright said the highest special combat allowance for American forces in Vietnam is $65 per month while a Thai lieutenant gets $120 from the United States.

The payments stem from agreements under which the Asian nations send troops to Vietnam.

The Armed Services Committee said in its report accompanying the $19.2 billion military procurement bill that Pentagon funds should not be used to aid the Cambodian government. Fulbright's amendment puts that into the bill and extends it

Heavy Rains Continue Over State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The border city of Texarkana continued to have minor flooding problems this morning after more rain fell Thursday night, giving the city more than six inches of rain since midnight Wednesday.

All streets and underpasses, including one which was closed for nine hours Thursday, were open this morning.

However, water had reached a depth of 1½ feet by mid-morning at one underpass. City crewmen began working early this morning clearing ditches of debris to insure better drainage.

The U.S. Weather Bureau issued a flash flood bulletin for Southwest Arkansas this morning, saying that locally heavy thunderstorms that continued through Thursday night could cause flash flooding today. The bureau said it expected small streams to continue to rise rapidly.

Police and volunteers evacuated some residents from their home here Thursday morning when creeks left their banks and climbed as high as 3½ feet into some houses.

Considerable shower activity is expected across the state tonight, decreasing somewhat by Saturday night. Temperatures are expected to remain cooler with a slight warming trend by Sunday.

Skies are expected to remain partly cloudy through Saturday with a chance of mainly afternoon and evening thundershowers.

The Weather Bureau said a chance of locally heavy thundershowers would exist tonight in Northeast, Northwest and Southwest Arkansas.

Highs Thursday ranged from 66 at Fort Smith to 85 at Texarkana.

Overnight lows included 66 at Fayetteville, 66 at Harrison, 74 at Jonesboro, 77 at Pine Bluff, 74 at Texarkana, 76 at El Dorado, 73 at Memphis, 74 at Little Rock and 74 at Fort Smith.

Rainfall recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today included 46 of an inch at Fayetteville, 34 at Texarkana and 15 at El Dorado.

bus and pro-Rockefeller vote.

There could be indecision by some voters on whether to vote in the GOP primary to assure Rockefeller's renomination or whether to cast a ballot in the Democratic primary against Faubus. For the first time, they are faced with such a choice.

In his two previous winning campaigns, Rockefeller had light opposition in the primary. Pro-Rockefeller voters could ignore the GOP primary and vote in the Democratic race, confident that their man would be victorious and waiting to take on the Democratic nominee in November. With a four-man race this year, however, a light turnout in the Republican primary could mean trouble for Rockefeller, especially with Negro R. J. Hampton in the race.

Johnson says there is more interest in the Republican primary than before. "We sought to get as many people involved as we could," he said.

He said he believed that 40 to 50 per cent of the votes cast in the Republican primary would be those of blacks. He noted that Rockefeller has shown strength in the past among black voters and that Hampton's candidacy would be a natural attraction for them. Former Democrats Lester Gibbs and James K. MacKrell, Rockefeller's other opponents, also have urged a Democratic cross-over vote.

Another factor, Johnson said, was that blacks will oppose each other for nomination to three legislative seats. These races will attract Negro voters, he said.

Some Negroes, however, may be attracted to the Democratic primary to vote against Faubus, who was at one time the symbol of white resistance to desegregation.

The Fulbright amendments were brought up after the Senate reached an impasse on an amendment to replace the draft with an all-volunteer force. Stennis has refused to agree to a voting time.

Butcher Now Cutting a Wider Swath as an International Idol

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Any woman in the world would be happy to buy pork chops from a butcher as handsome as Alain Delon—no matter how heavy a thumb he put on the scales.

But the actor, who once whacked up hams in his stepfather's pork shop in a Paris suburb, is now cutting a wider swath as an international matione idol.

At 34, tall, dark, blue-eyed and handsome, Delon is strikingly reminiscent of the late Tyrone Power. In the latest of his 30 or more films, "Borsalino," which he also produced, he is co-starred with Jean-Paul Belmondo. They play a couple of small-time rogues who wind up dominating the Marseilles underworld.

Vanity is about the only buffer an actor has between himself and the rude shocks of this world, and many a one believes his career to be the most important thing in the universe.

Alain regards his craft with a more Gallic practicality.

"A statesman, a scientist or a writer can put his stamp upon his time," he said, "but not an actor. There is a difference between creativity and interpretation."

"I don't have the vanity to want to be eternal. A famous painter might paint your portrait, and it might be eternal—but you wouldn't be eternal. "It is only the creation that is eternal. It remains. The individual is dead."

Alain put down his butcher knife at 17 and spent four years in the French marines. He worked briefly as a porter before journeying with a group of actor friends to the film festival at Cannes, where he caught the eyes of producers.

His youthful experiences left Delon with some intense and positive views about living.

"Life is a constant fight, but beautiful," he said. "You fight every day for what you believe, but it is worth it. It is all too short anyway. It is a race run so fast it is a shame."

"I want to live for myself and the few people I love. I want to do only the things I believe in deeply, so that I can look in the mirror at my face and not be ashamed."

Divorced more than two years ago from his actress wife, Nathalie Delon, Alain is devoted to his 6-year-old son Anthony.

"I worry only about him and no one else," he said. "All my life is him. He is the continuation of myself."

"I am almost of the past. He is the future."

"He is so sensitive, so touching—and so sensible. I'd like him to be a surgeon."

Discussing his own personality, Alain said he felt his best quality was "a sense of friendship," and his worst fault lack of self-control.

"I lose my temper over things, big or little, when people are weak or mean. There is too much hypocrisy in life."

talks which U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring will hold. The two Arab leaders also were expected to reach some agreement on ways to deal with the Palestinian guerrillas who are trying to sabotage Hussein's peace efforts.

Israel informed Jarring that it would prefer to have the peace talks near the Middle East rather than in New York, but an Israeli spokesman said his government did not make the preference "an absolute condition."

Egypt and Jordan proposed earlier in the week that the three nation's delegates to the United Nations begin the talks there, and today the independent Israeli newspaper Haaretz said this idea had a certain advantage. It said if the ambassadors got the "first round" out of the way, "the possibility would exist of solving outstanding problems via the foreign ministers in the second round."

Storm Dorothy Obituaries Is Fading to Hard Wind

MIAMI (AP) — Weakened in her passage through the mountains of the Windward Islands, Tropical storm Dorothy packed a top wind punch of only 50 miles an hour today on a west-northwest course across the Caribbean Sea.

Winds had been hitting 70 mph Thursday.

A gradual rebuilding of intensity was forecast, however, and residents of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Haiti and the Dominican Republic were advised to keep informed of storm advisories.

A Navy reconnaissance report placed the storm center near Latitude 15.1 north, Longitude 64.0 west, about 260 miles southeast of San Juan and 1,000 miles east-southeast of Miami. It was moving at 14 m.p.h.

Gale force winds covered an area 150 miles in diameter.

First reports indicated that Martinique experienced minor damage as the storm battered its way through the Leeward chain.

Typhoon Hits Japan, 15 Are Killed

TOKYO (AP) — Anita, the most powerful typhoon to hit Japan so far this year, killed at least 15 persons in Western Japan and injured 222 others today. The weather bureau said the destructive storm might veer back across northern Japan.

Police said five persons were missing, 1,865 families were homeless and more than 45,000 houses were damaged or flooded.

After its death-dealing sweep across Shikoku, the main southern Japanese island, the storm moved into the Sea of Japan. The winds dropped from 111 to 78 miles per hour.

Heavy wind and rain on the fringe of the storm soaked Expo '70 in Osaka, 167 miles north-west of Anita's path, but officials said 249,260 had visited the Asian world's fair by noon.

Nixon expressed confidence that the Mexican Congress would approve the agreement. He said it would be submitted to the U.S. Senate as a treaty, and "while we have some difficulties with some votes in the Senate, the secretary of state assures me that we can get a unanimous vote on this treaty."

The U.S. President also reported that he and his host had made progress on the problem of salinity in the Colorado River after it crosses the border where California, Arizona and Mexico meet. Mexico wants more water from the upper Colorado to reduce the salt content.

Living Costs Continue to Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs posted the third straight monthly rise of four-tenths of one per cent in July.

Price increases for food, transportation, medical care and some housing costs were the major factors in last month's rise that pushed the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index up to 135.7. The figure means it took $13.57 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of approximately 45 million rank-and-file workers rose $1.02 to $121.07 per week. After adjustment for price increases, this represented a slight rise in purchasing power, but purchasing power was still nearly one per cent below a year earlier.

Consumer prices were 5.9 per cent above July of 1969, a slight drop in the 6 per cent rate of inflation that has prevailed for the past year and a half.

Explosives Set Off When Ship Sinks

WASHINGTON (AP) — An explosion was felt aboard escort vessels three minutes after a ship with 5,000 tons of bombs and ammunition was scuttled 118 miles off the Maryland coast, the Navy says.

There was no damage to the vessels, which were about five miles from the sinking Liberty ship Davis Hughes.

The ship went under at shortly after noon Thursday after taking water through open sea-cocks for five hours. No further details were announced.

The Hughes was similar to the ship used Tuesday to dump nerve gas and rockets off Florida. The sinking was the 20th of the Operation Chase program to dump obsolete munitions and warfare gases into the sea.

A Message To The Voters Of The Fifth Senatorial District:

In announcing my candidacy for re-election to the Arkansas Senate from the Fifth Senatorial District, which consists of Hempstead, Howard, Nevada and Sevier Counties, I did so with the greatest humility and appreciation in my heart to the good people who have let me serve in the Senate for the past twelve years. During the twelve years that I have served you, I have done the very best that I could. I have tried to make you a good Senator. I have tried to represent you in a way I thought you wanted me to, and in a way that you could be honored by my serving you.

By your being so nice as to let me serve you these past years, I will rank SIXTH IN SENIORITY if you see fit to re-elect me. This means that there are only five other Senators who have been here longer than I have. Seniority, as you know, is very important and my seniority in the Arkansas Senate will put me in a better position than ever before to serve this district. It often happens that a new man is elected to a legislative position with many good motives and good ideas, and then finds that it sometimes takes years of seniority to put these ideas over. Seniority is important, very important, and I hope that you will keep this in mind in the election August 25.

Due to my seniority, I have pledges from the present membership that I will be the President Pro Tempore of the 1971 Legislative Session. President Pro Tempore of the Senate serves as the presiding officer of the Senate in the absence of the Lieutenant Governor. According to our present Constitution, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is second in line to the Office of the Governor in the event of death or disability or the absence of the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor. Yes, seniority is important and it can be very important to our district the next four years.

I am a member of the Arkansas Legislative Council which is the major fact finding and research committee of the Legislature. The Legislative Council also reviews and prepares the state's budget for all the state agencies which is considered prior to each legislative session.

Being a member of the Legislative Council, I serve on the Roads and Highway Committee, the Committee on Corporations, Insurance and Banking, and I am chairman of the Charitable, Penal and Correctional Institution Committee. During the past four years, this committee on penal institutions has played a major role in the various efforts to improve the state penitentiary system. Prior to the 1969 session of the legislature, this committee made a tour of some of the penal institutions in other southern states. Upon returning, a report was made to the Governor of Arkansas and the Legislature. Out of this report came the new Department of Corrections Bill which is now law. This bill was co-sponsored by myself as chairman of the committee. This report won recognition by the National Legislative Leaders Conference in 1968 and I certainly feel that the new Department of Corrections Law is the answer to our problems at the State Penitentiary if properly administered.

I feel that one of the greatest problems facing our state at this time is the Penitentiary System and I think it will take a long time to correct the situation. But I certainly feel that it can be corrected by very careful planning and hard work. This I pledge to you to continue to do.

During my tenure in the Arkansas Legislature, I have seen the general revenue taxes increase from a figure of $91,449,646.30 in 1959 to the 1969-70 fiscal year, which ended this past June, to a figure of $232,595,176.92 which is about 2½ times double. All of this has been done by economic growth in Arkansas as there has not been a major tax increase to the general revenue fund.

I feel that we are making some real progress in Arkansas. We are growing. I know and realize that there might be additional needs for more revenues to support different state agencies, but at the same time, I do not think it is economically sound to impose more taxes upon the people. I have, and I will continue to strive for economy in state government, efficiency in its operations, so that all the agencies can do a better job with what they have.

Again, due to my seniority, I am on the Joint Budget Committee of the Legislature and have served in this capacity for the past four years. This committee is composed of twelve members of the Legislature, five Senators and seven house members. This committee must pass on every state appropriation to the different agencies of state government. It is here again that I have done my very best to spend your tax dollars wisely to see that we got everything possible out of every dollar available for a more efficient and economic state government.

In addition to the work done by the Committee on Charitable and Penal Institutions on the Arkansas State Penitentiary System, it has been our responsibility to make several inspection tours of the nursing homes of Arkansas to see that our elderly people were receiving the proper food and care. All of these tours have been conducted between sessions of the legislature.

Another committee that I serve on in the Arkansas Legislature is the Committee on Revenue and taxation. This is the most important committee . . . one that affects the lives of every individual in the State of Arkansas as it is charged with the responsibility of all revenue and taxation bills which are introduced in the Legislature; for studying, for holding public hearings, etc.

All of you know of my work with the State Hospital, both in and out of the Arkansas Legislature. I have begged and pleaded in the Arkansas Legislature for money to re-build the Little Rock unit in its entirety and to get enough money to air-condition and re-work the buildings at the Benton unit. At one time there were over 5000 people in those two institutions, part of them sleeping on the floors. There was not enough room, not enough doctors, not enough nurses and not enough food. Today the State Hospital is properly staffed with doctors, nurses, attendants, etc., and the present population is down to 1200 to 1400. The length of stay by the patient has been reduced tremendously and the whole nation has its eye on Arkansas' mental institution as being one of the finest in this country anywhere.

With long hours, hard work, and the know-how to get things done, other state agencies can become honor institutions which bring national recognition to Arkansas.

I was born in Arkansas and I have never lived anywhere except in Pike and Nevada Counties. I am married to the former Carmen Cornish of the Nathan Community on the Howard-Pike County line. We have four fine children, three boys and one girl, all residing in Arkansas. We are the proud grandparents of seven grandsons and one granddaughter. So you can see that I have reason to want an even better Arkansas. I, like you, have a great stake in its future. I want my grandchildren to have better than what I had in the way of schools, college and university training.

A lot of good legislation has been passed and a lot of bad legislation, in my opinion, has been defeated. I am real proud of the progress we have made and are making in our district. I have done my best to keep you informed on what is going on in the Arkansas Legislature. I have tried to first know your desires and wishes as to the different matters that come before the legislature and, certainly, I have done my best to vote and carry out your convictions and this I pledge to you that I will continue to do.

If you will go to the polls on August 25 and vote for me for re-election as your State Senator, I promise you that I will give you the very best that I have in me and that I will work for you and for a better Arkansas.

Thank you,
Olen Hendrix

Reasons Why Eddie Fisher Is Bankrupt

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A former aide estimates that Eddie Fisher made more than $700,000 annually in his peak years. Now the belting baritone has filed a bankruptcy petition in Puerto Rico. What happened?

Longtime Fisher watchers and associates speculate: "I don't think he's kept his repertoire as up to date as Sinatra does. Or Andy Williams, who has kept developing with the times."

"The public got tired of him. He was the former Mr. Elizabeth Taylor too long."

"Eddie's always been a giver. Any time you admired anything of his he gave it to you. More people are wearing old Eddie Fisher suits than any other entertainer's."

"The pressure of debt kept him from caring about how good he can be. The bankruptcy may help him put his mind to his career again."

For RCA-Victor he recorded 23 straight hits, including the million-plus sellers "Any Time," "I'm Walking Behind You," "Oh, Mein Papa" and "I Need You Now."

CAN OFFICE WIFE BE JEALOUS?

Dear Helen: I'm not in love with my boss, so how do you explain the jealousy I feel when he shows interest in another secretary?

He is married. His family is great. I like his wife. And I'm married to the only man in my life. Maybe the fact that I've become an office wife has something to do with my feelings.

My boss has never shown interest in other women workers before, though he is quite attractive. Now he seeks out this new gal, and though she does nothing to really encourage him, I can see mutual attraction.

Why should this bother me when I'm not involved? — MRS. GREEN EYES

Dear Mrs. Green: You're confusing jealousy with the natural protective instinct a good office wife always has for her boss. Also, you're human and female, so even though you don't love him, you DO love the No. 1 spot in his business life. And you're worried too, because you see a possible threat to a great family.

Why not play it as any good wife would? Be aware, trusting, but a little bit sneaky. Tell the new gal about your boss' terrific family relationship, and steer her toward a younger single fellow in the company. — H.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television viewers with access to channels of the three major networks usually get a choice of entertainment categories.

A typically varied menu would be next season's tri-network bill of fare during an early hour on Friday evenings.

There will be a pair of situation comedies on one network, a doctor-drama on another, and a family-type western on the third.

But either by chance or some arcane theorizing of audience research experts, Wednesday night will have an hour in which three police-action series will be slugging it out, toe-to-toe, for audience favor. Viewers who fancy the crime genre may feel they are being discriminated against, but actors who will be caught in the cross-fire are even more unhappy.

NBC will send out its six-part series, "McCloud," to do battle with an established series, "Hawaii Five-O" on CBS. Facing them will be ABC's Burt Reynolds playing a newly minted detective named "Dan August."

It is Reynolds' second series in which he has starred as a cop. Several seasons back Reynolds emerged briefly as one of Manhattan's finest named "Hawk." The ABC series, a slick production, never took off, possibly because the hero, an Indian, never smiled and seemed to bristle with hostility.

Reynolds, who really is part Cherokee, actually is a witty attractive man whose sun-darkened face is often lighted by a grin.

This time he will be a homicide detective in a small West Coast community.

"August," he said reflectively, "will have charm, have a good relationship with his associates and will love people ... he'll be just a little bit square."

The actor, whose home is still in his native Florida, has made a number of films since "Hawk," but done nothing earth-shaking.

"I wanted to get back into television," Reynolds said, "and I wanted to do something for either Paul Monash or Quinn Martin, who I think are the smartest producers in the medium. "I didn't want to be another private eye or one of those mod characters. I lucked out, because Quinn had this series for me."

Reynolds has remained a bachelor since his divorce several years ago from Judy Carne, who achieved fame on "Laugh-In."

An outdoorsman, he directs the operations of a 180-acre Florida ranch, and breeds and races Appaloosa horses.

Elderly Group Forum Is Organized

Earlier this week a large group of older citizens met in the Douglas Building and planned a White House Community Forum.

Guest speakers were John E. Hill, planning specialist from Little Rock and Henry Ward of Rosston, a member of the Governor's Advisory Council on aging.

Forum committee members elected were Mrs. Eva McKinney, chairman; Mrs. Mattie L. Bazzelle, vice-chairman; Mrs. M. L. Rutherford, registration chairman; Mrs. Neva Carmichael, recorder and Mrs. Velma Collier, questionnaire supervisor.

This program is set up for every citizen to speak and their voices to be heard at local, state and national levels. Twenty million men and women in the United States today have passed their 65th birthday. They are varied in race, creed, educational attainments, health, skills and aspirations.

The "young elderly", aged 65-75 and the "old elderly" are from 75 to 90 and some 13,000 are 100 years and older. However, society has tended to group them together at an arbitrary cut-off point as though they were all alike. As a result they have certain things in common and similar barriers to overcome, yet they offer a tremendous reservoir of skills, experience and wisdom which they need to use and which the nation needs.

It is to the full range of needs and interest of these groups that the administration's program for the aged is directed. Many people have received the benefit of medicare and medicade which came about through this program.

Yankees Nip Twins; 4-3 Score

Associated Press Sports Writer
Mel Stottlemire and Ron Reed switched their talents to slugging, and the right-handed pitchers came out with a pair of victories—and a draw.

Stottlemire took his frustrations out against Minnesota, ripping a two-run, seventh-inning triple that enabled the New York Yankees to nip the Twins, West Division leaders of the American League, 4-3 Thursday night.

Reed, Atlanta's tall curveballer, drilled a run-scoring single in the middle of a three-run second inning as the Braves trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 6-2 in the only other major league game.

Reed also came out with a no-decision in an exchange of blows with teammate Rico Carty prior to Wednesday night's game, the Atlanta Journal reported.

The incident between Carty, the major league's leading hitter with a .357 average and Reed, now 6-5 after missing half of the season with a separated shoulder, occurred in the Braves' dressing room and involved the removal of Little League bats by Carty from Reed's locker.

Club officials confirmed the incident but said: "It was just a case of a couple of guys getting a little mad. It happens with all clubs sooner or later." Carty previously had been involved in a fight with Hank Aaron aboard a plane in 1967.

Stottlemire, 12-10, who was thrown out of Wednesday night's game against the Twins when he disputed a call from the bench, held the Twins to seven hits and all three runs in seven innings. Lindy McDaniel stopped Minnesota over the final two frames.

Leo Cardenas drove in a pair of Minnesota runs with a homer and sacrifice fly and George Mitterwald socked a homer for the Twins, now five games in front of California.

Felix Millan knocked in a pair of runs for the Braves with a single and sacrifice fly and Reed stymied the Phils on seven hits for his second straight triumph. Carty had a double in the seventh and scored on an error.

Kapp, Vikings $1 Million Apart on Pay

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Joe Kapp and the Minnesota Vikings are still $1 million apart and money alone can't bridge the gap between Jim Nance and the Boston Patriots.

In contrast, all that stands between Roger Brown and the Los Angeles Rams is a 29-pound weight lag. But it appears that Brown's gain will be the Fear-some Foursome's loss.

While a lawyer for quarterback Kapp threatened the Vikings with a multimillion dollar court suit and the Patriots reached an impasse in contract talks with fullback Nance Thursday, the Rams quietly "retired" defensive tackle Brown, a 10-year National Football League standout, because of his 329-pound impost.

"Roger had three fine years for the Rams and I'm sorry to see him go," said Coach George Allen. "He has at least three more good years ... if he takes care of himself."

Big Roger reported to the Rams' training camp at a not-so-svelte 334 pounds—about 34 over his playing weight—and was barred from practice pending a drastic reduction. But, despite rigorous efforts, he managed to shed just five pounds before the club lost patience.

The former All-Pro performer, acquired by Los Angeles in a 1967 trade with the Detroit Lions, was placed on the reserve list.

Attorney John Cook, representing Kapp, the NFL's No. 1 holdout, charged that the free agent quarterback's negotiating efforts were being sabotaged by "gentlemen's agreements" among the club owners.

"If Joe is unable to play football because of those tactics," Cook told the San Antonio News, "they (the owners) will be confronted with a multimillion dollar anti-trust and fraudulent connivance suit."

Nance, who, like Kapp, played out his option last year, had been bargaining through representatives, with the Patriots for several months. But the club said Thursday that the negotiations had been broken off.

"While the financial terms were satisfactory for both parties, and have been for several weeks," Pats President William H. Sullivan Jr. said, "there were certain conditions desired by Nance and his advisors that the Patriots felt they could not grant without giving up some of the prerogatives of management."

Elsewhere, Baltimore and Pittsburgh swapped gifted pass receivers, the Colts picking up All-NFL Roy Jefferson in exchange for Willie Richardson, a seven-year vet, plus a high 1970 draft choice.

"Jefferson is one of those scorers," Colts General Manager Don Klosterman said of the sixth-year pro whose 67 catches last season set a Steeler record. "We are expecting great things out of his speed and ability to get open for pass receptions."

Richardson caught 43 passes for the Colts last season. "He's a fine athlete and we are very fortunate to get him," said Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll.

Two games kick off the week-end exhibition schedule tonight. Atlanta invades Washington and Philadelphia visits Buffalo.

Tommy Nibis, who sat out Atlanta's last nine games in 1969 with a damaged knee, returns at middle linebacker for the Falcons, who are coming off a 33-7 romp over the New York Jets.

They should have their hands full this time against the Redskins' Sonny Jurgensen, who fired four scoring passes in a 45-21 massacre of Boston last Sunday.

Quarterback Dennis Shaw, the Bills' No. 1 draft pick who signed a $100,000 three-year contract Wednesday, will watch second-year man Jimmy Harris direct the Buffalo attack against the Eagles.

North Carolina has a total area of 52,712 square miles.

Dan Sikes Leads in Avco Classic

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Raindrops kept falling and so did the putts, sending veteran Dan Sikes into a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the $160,000 Avco Golf Classic.

"It's probably the best putting round I've had in my life," the 39-year-old non-practicing attorney who retains membership in the Florida Bar Association said Thursday.

"I've been playing golf for 20 years and this must be the best putting I've ever done," Sikes said after mastering mammoth greens for a six-under-par 66 at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Carrying an umbrella, Sikes was an early starter in the bulky field of 153. He got off to a watery start, taking three putts for a bogey four on the first green.

However, the drawing veteran from Florida quickly adjusted to the sprinkles, reacting like a duck. He registered four consecutive birdies starting with the second hole, and finished with a total of eight birds despite three three-putt greens on the 7,212-yard course.

"I had a couple of other chances for birdies with reasonable putts, but I guess I had collected my share," Sikes said.

"This is a nice start, but the important thing is the finish. I usually get tangled up somewhere along the line in 72-hole tournaments such as this. The older you get, the more you run out of gas."

Sikes, winless in two years on the PGA tour, came within one stroke of Pleasant Valley's competitive course record. He stamped himself as a top threat for the $32,000 first prize.

However, he had plenty of contenders waiting for him to falter in the second round today. Just two strokes back were Billy Casper, Bobby Mitchell, John Schlee and local product Joe Carr. The four just missed in bids to overtake Sikes in the first round, each settling for 68.

Defending champion Tom Shaw, Dave Eichelberger, Don Bies, Tom Aycock, Jim Colbert and R. H. Sikes were bunched at 69. Then, another stroke back with 70, were U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf, Bob Goalby, Herb Hooper, Lou Graham, Lionel Hebert, and Lloyd Monroe.

Gary Player and Dave Stockton, the newly-crowned PGA champion, were tied with a flock of entries with 72s.

Lady Golfers Carry Good Luck Symbols

By KAROL STONER
Associated Press Sports Writer
DARIEN, Conn. (AP) — The battle of the Curtis Cuppers in today's semifinal round of the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship shaped up as a test not only of prowess but of good luck symbols.

Medalist Martha Wilkinson, who wears a British Lion pin for luck, meets Shelley Hamlin who carries "swell head," "big mouth" and "foxy fourwood" with her.

Cynthia Hill, with 35 cents in coins won in a bet with British cupper Mrs. I. C. Robertson, faces Jane Bastanchury who relies on only one coin, an Australian five cent piece she picked up down under two years ago.

Miss Hill, 22, of South Haven, Mich., won the change from Mrs. Robertson on a bet Tuesday as to what it would take to qualify for match play.

"I wanted to give it back to her," said Cindy, "but she said, 'No, keep it. It's good luck.'"

Miss Hill was beaten by Miss Bastanchury in the Intercollegiate in Seattle, Wash., in 1966.

Miss Hamlin, 21, of Fresno Calif., who was runnerup last year, is relying on her golf club head covers, so appropriately named, to erase her 0-2 record against Miss Wilkinson.

Miss Wilkinson, who will again don the ivory golf cap with the pin attached which she has worn ever since it was given to her earlier this week by members of the British Curtis Cup team, defeated Miss Hamlin in 1965 and 1966 in the U.S. girls Junior Golf Championships.

If Miss Wilkinson wins today, it'll be "foxy four wood" who'll get yelled at. Miss Hamlin says she blames him for everything.

Weatherly Eliminated From Race

NEW PORT, R.I. (AP) — Three contenders to defend the America's Cup against either a 12-meter yacht from Australia or France remained today with the elimination of Weatherly.

The 1962 Cup defender was ousted Thursday by the New York Yacht Club's America's Cup Committee after being beaten by three minutes and 42 seconds by Valiant for her third straight loss in the final trials.

Valiant, 3-0, was to sail against Intrepid, 2-1, today, with Heritage, 1-2, had the day off.

Intrepid beat Heritage by 1:12 in the other race over the 24.3 mile America's Cup course.

Heritage will sail against Valiant Saturday and against Intrepid Monday. Insiders feel that Heritage must win at least one of those two races to remain in the competition after Monday.

The best-of-7 elimination series to determine the Cup challenger began today between Gretel II of Australia and France of France.

I need your vote

During my campaign for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, I've been asking for your vote. I've made it a full time occupation to talk to as many voters as possible. To encourage them to be interested. To get involved. It is extremely important that you vote. And that you vote in the Republican Primary.

Since becoming a member of the Arkansas House of Representatives in 1957, I've realized how important it is that every eligible voter go to the polls and vote for his candidate. For it is only through an honest consensus of the electorate that any man can truly serve the people.

Brooks Likes New Racing Regulation

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Dick Brooks, a Californian who won NASCAR Rookie of the Year honors last season, has a hot tip for drivers who want to win Sunday's $135,000 Talladega 500 Stock Car Race.

"All you gotta do is draft another car for 499 miles, then pass everybody on the last lap," he said Thursday. "That's the way to do it, the only way."

Brooks, 29, was one of many drivers who had complained earlier this year about the increasing speeds of stock racing cars on the big speedways.

And he was among the first to approve when NASCAR imposed a rule 10 days ago that requires special plates to reduce venturi openings on carburetors. The idea is to slow the cars down, and at the same time reduce the number of broken engines and suspension failures.

The rule went into effect at the Yankee 400 in Michigan last Sunday. The 4,000-pound stockers ran 45 miles slower than they did at the same track in June and only two of the 40 starters had to quit because of engine failures.

But the most dramatic evidence of the effectiveness of the rule came at Talladega Thursday when 20 drivers, including Brooks, earned starting spots in the 50-car field for Sunday's race at Alabama International Speedway, a highly banked 2.66-mile trioval.

Bobby Isaac won the pole position at 186.834 miles per hour — in the same winged Dodge with which he posted 199.658 m.p.h. for the pole spot in the Alabama 500 here last April.

All of the other drivers were running proportionately slower, and many of the complained halfheartedly that the new carburetor plate was working too well at Talladega.

Court for First Time in San Quentin

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Court will be held Monday for the first time behind the walls of 118-year-old San Quentin Prison.

"We're trying it out on an experimental basis," Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin County Superior Court said. He will preside.

The possibility of such court sessions for San Quentin prisoners was raised in the aftermath of the Aug. 7 San Rafael courtroom kidnap-shooting in which a judge and three of his abductors were killed. A San Quentin prisoner's case was involved.

Wilson said the Monday session would involve only pretrial proceedings.

The session will be held in a large room of the In Service Training Building inside the prison's main gate. The judge said press and public will be admitted subject to some restrictions.

Warden Louis S. Nelson said newsmen need only their press cards to get in, but that members of the public will have to undergo search, provide identi-

Nelson said he thought the innovation would invite a court test of the constitutionality of holding court in prison.

"If I were a defendant in such a court I would do that," he said, adding a man might consider the site a prejudice against him.

Marin County Administrator Allan Bruce said the prison courtroom will contain all the semblances of a court session four miles away in San Rafael judge, flags, bailiffs, lawyers, spectators.

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Defensive end Glenn Woods and cornerback-running back Billy Alsbrook have been claimed on waivers by the Boston Patriots from the Houston Oilers.

The National Football League club said Houston has the right of recall for 24 hours. Woods has also been claimed by the Cincinnati Bengals.

Rice Offense to Have New Look

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University is expected to prove it still places emphasis on football as Owls prepare for another rough season in the Southwest Conference.

The 1970 team will be the first totally recruited by coach Bo Hagan.

This year also the Blue will be playing on astroturf, the artificial grass, which was laid over the entire Rice stadium floor this summer.

The Rice defense will have about the same team as in 1969, with one notable exception.

"Our defense returns almost intact," Hagan said. "We should be improved in that vital area."

Missing will be Rodrigo Barnes, the Southwest Conference defensive Lineman of the Year last season while playing both end and linebacker. The Wacoan was due to start this year as a middle linebacker but is ineligible because of grades.

Most likely to start on defense are ends Butch Robinson and Roger Collins, guards Roger Roitsch and Ed Erwin and linebackers Monte Hutchinson, Randy Lee and Dale Grounds.

Cornerbacks David Keys and Mike Tyler and rover Bucky Allshouse and safety Jack Faubion began to click as a unit in spring training.

The Rice offense will have a new look, with one of the major changes at tailback.

This spot will be taken by Stahl Vincent, a junior who has made a successful switch from last year's quarterback slot.

"Our offense had a major overhaul in the spring," Hagan said, "primarily with several position switches that we are confident will provide much improvement. We will have basically a 4-3 defense and a multiple-T offense."

Quarterbacking will be Phillip Wood, a good runner who split time at quarterback last year with Vincent.

In their last game against Baylor, which the Owls won 34-6, Wood came in for the day. Back-

Expert Says Ancient Olympic Performers Known as 'Lovers'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — The ancient Olympic Games were performed in the nude and the performers were known as "lovers," says a leading authority on the English language.

But "love" means "nothing" in tennis and bowling gets its name from "bubble," the kind used by strip-teasers in the 1940s.

If you score, you "notch," according to Dr. H. Bosley Woolf, managing editor of the Merriam-Webster dictionaries, who has just completed a study of the derivation of sports terms.

"In the golden age of Greece, athletics played an important part in everyday life, and physical strength and grace were highly regarded," Dr. Woolf said. "The athletes, in their games, were not impeded by ing him up will be Jimmy Davis and Mike Spruill.

Walt Richardson and Bill Batchelor will be the split tackles and Brownie Wheelless and Sam Johnson the tight tackles.

Playing at split guard will be Paul Strahan and Tommy Peel. Ron Waedemon, David Stockwell and Nick Fowler are the tight guards. Gary Carley and Don Johnson will handle the centering duties.

Also missing from the squad because of grades is Ron Arceneaux, who caught 25 passes for 300 yards in five freshman games last year and was all-SWC.

Not playing last year but returning are Chris Hale, a junior defensive back, sophomore kicking specialist Mark Williams and sophomore defensive end Mike Malone.

Williams is expected to replace Tim Davis, who graduated, at precision kicking.

Malone was a freshman all-SWC tackle in '68. Hale was a frequent starter as defensive back the same year.

Players highlighting the squad are Roitsch, who was all-SWC last year; Wheelless, Allshouse, who handles the punting; Wood and Vincent.

costumes. They exercised nude. The original Olympic Games were conducted in the nude."

The word "gymnastics," he added, stems from the Greek "Gymnos" (nude) and "Gymnazein" (exercise naked).

Only amateurs compete in the Olympics—or so insists Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee. The word "amateur" comes from the Latin "amator," or "lover," meaning one who indulges for the love of the game.

"Love" in tennis is derived from the French "l'oeuf," meaning goose-egg or zero. The sport itself gets its name from the French exclamation "tenez" (take it!) and "racket" comes from the Arabic "rahat," or palm of the hand. It was first handball.

The root of the general term "sport" is the Latin "des" (away) and "porto" (carry). "Of course, that is what sports really do," Dr. Woolf says. "They carry us away from the cares and daily routine of the workaday world."

"Athlete" is borrowed from both Latin and Greek, "athlein" and "athlos," meaning to contend for a prize. "Arena" stems from the Latin "harena," sand or a sandy place. Norway contributed "skor," which became "score" or "notch."

Dr. Woolf's dictionaries show that hockey got its name from the Middle French "hoquet," or shepherd's crook, implying the game was played in the early Christian era by sheep-herders. Bowling is derived from the Latin "bulia," or bubble.

The early Dutch played with clubs they called "kolf" or "colf," from which golf came. Squash is just as rubber sounds when it is struck by a racket. Skeet is one of the newest sports terms, from the Norwegian "skjota," or shoot, adopted in 1920 after a nationwide contest.

It's okay to run nude in the Olympics and inject love into tennis, but it's worse not to show up at all or default.

"Forfeit," says Dr. Woolf, "is a compound of the Middle French "fors" (outside) and "fait" (done), meaning something done outside the law.

"To forfeit is a crime, punishable by law."

Housewife Makes It to Tourney
NARRAGANSETT, R.I. (AP) —Nancy Neeld, an Albuquerque, N.M., housewife playing in her first grass court tournament, made a shambles of the seedings in sweeping to the National Senior Women's Tennis Championship.

The 39-year-old mother of three finished her Cinderella performance the hard way Thursday, knocking off the two-time defending champion Mrs. Betty Rosenquist Pratt of Maitland, Fla., 6-3, 7-5, with a pair of amazing rallies in the rain-interrupted second set.

Would Repeal Concentration Camp Law

MIAMI (AP) — A law which authorizes creation of federal concentration camps under crisis conditions was praised today by the chairman of a committee considering its repeal.

The Justice Department has said it would support repeal to quell such rumors.

But Ichord argued repeal would also remove the law's safeguards including due process appeal procedures for accused subversives and leave the President unrestricted in an emergency, as President Franklin D. Roosevelt was, to order detentions.

Had the act been in effect on Dec. 7, 1941," Ichord contended, "the unhappy executive order affecting Japanese-Americans would very probably never have been issued."

The law was enacted in 1950 by a Congress that made clear it was aimed against Communists. Specifically, it authorizes detention of persons declared potential subversives by the attorney general in time of declared war, invasion of the United States or internal insurrection.

Ichord has said the law clearly does not apply to current domestic disorders, but groups including the American Civil Liberties Union have argued at House hearings that it could be invoked now if campus or slum riots were declared insurrec-

Young American Homes Sells First LeVelle Off the Line

The first mobile home in 14-wide field was J.P. The announcement was made by Tony Mays, Vice President and recently appointed General Manager of the Young American plant in Levelland.

Featuring a wide variety of decors and floor plans, the LeVelle will be produced in 65-foot and 73-foot lengths, making it one of the industry's top-line models. Making the first purchase of the newest entry into the

We plan to strive to constantly improve both the design and the construction techniques which have gone into the creation of the LeVelle. We are proud that in only a few months, the name Young American Homes has come to mean quality products for the consumer as well as the best in professional service for our dealers."

Distribution of the LeVelle 14-wide home is expected to cover the major portions of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arizona, Colorado and areas of Kansas. Four Youths Set World Swim Records

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alice Jones was elated, Dobbie Meyer was calm, Mike Starnum knew he could swim as fast as he did and John Kinsella was disappointed he hadn't swum faster.

But the four teen-agers have three things in common: newly minted national AAU titles, world records, and sights set on the 1972 Olympics in Munich — which made Thursday's opening night of the 1970 AAU championships a good one for U.S. hopes.

Miss Jones, a pert brown-haired 18-year-old coed at the University of Cincinnati, had never swum the 100-meter butterfly in less than 1:06.7 before Thursday. Then came a meet record in the morning preliminaries, and a sizzling 1:04.11 clocking in the finals that cut nearly a half-second off Ada Kok's five-year-old record.

"I can't believe it—I always choked before," she said, breathless but happy after the race. She led the qualifying last year but finished seventh.

Miss Meyer, 18, from Sacramento, Calif., had the aplomb of someone who's been there before, as indeed she has. Her 4:24.32 clocking in the 400-meter freestyle lowered one of three world records she owns, a mark she set during trials in this same Los Angeles Swim Stadium pool for the 1968 Olympics in which she won three gold medals.

Debbie started slower than her 1968 pace. "I didn't think it was going to be a record," she admitted. But she picked up the pace and started to sense the record.

"I knew it was going to have to hurt," she said. "I could feel the strain down to my toes."

Kinsella, a muscular 17-year-old from Hinsdale, Ill., apologized for his 400-meter time after the race, "I thought I could go faster," he said, "but I haven't been out in a while." His time of 4:02.81 was fast enough to shatter the record set last year at 4:04 by West German Hans Fasanacht, who finished seventh. Olympic champion Mike Burton of Arden Hills, Calif., finished second.

Starnum, 17, from San Diego, figured he could swim the 200-meter backstroke "faster than I went in the prelims," when he led qualifiers at 2:07.6.

He proved himself right in the finals, withstanding a late rush by Gary Hall to win in 2:06.33, breaking East German Roland Matthes' year-old mark of 2:06.5.

Jose Fiolo's American record of 1:06.9 in the 100-meter breaststroke took a beating Thursday. Fiolo broke it twice himself, but finished only third in the finals, as Brian Job of Santa Clara, Calif., overtook him in the stretch to win in 1:06.49.

Susie Atwood and Mark Spitz won their events easily but fell short of their own world records.

The women's 200-meter breaststroke went to Linda Kurtz, of Long Beach, in 2:16.66.

Vote Tues., Aug. 25

TO THE VOTERS OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY

I take this means of expressing my gratitude to the people of Hempstead County, for the warm reception and the courtesy given me during my campaign. It has been a pleasure for me to make new acquaintances and meet old friends, who have convinced me of their desire to make a change in the Sheriff's Office on August 25.

I have conducted my campaign in a courteous, business like manner with respect for my opponents. My promise to you is honest and efficient administration, fair and prompt law enforcement to all and to devote full time to the duties of Sheriff, with no outside obligation to any particular person or party.

I urge you to exercise your right and vote on August 25, and whatever your decision, I will honor it.

Thank you.

Education Nomination Hits Snag
By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The expected nomination of an outspoken, former big-city school superintendent as U.S. commissioner of education has met a White House roadblock after protests from organized labor.
The struggle within the Nixon administration over the nomination is proving the first major test of strength for Elliot L. Richardson, new secretary of health, education and welfare.
Administration sources confirmed that Richardson settled almost a month ago on Sidney P. Marland, former Pittsburgh school chief, for the sensitive No. 1 job in the office of education. Marland has a reputation as an innovative, strong administrator who speaks his mind freely.
The White House, however, has yet to approve Richardson's choice and send Marland's name to the Senate for confirmation.
Marland, already on the H.E.W. payroll as a consultant, is meeting almost daily with department officials and has used the undersecretary's office to interview candidates for top jobs in the education office.
Asked about the nomination to be education commissioner, he declined to comment.
Richardson's aides, while expressing confidence Marland will receive presidential approval, are beginning to show worry over the delay. They freely mention the striking parallel to last year's Knowles affair.
Robert H. Finch, then H.E.W. secretary, met an early defeat when he failed to gain presidential assent for his selection of Dr. John H. Knowles as assistant secretary for health.
The main stumbling block for Knowles was the American Medical Association. Marland's appears to be the strong opposition of the A.F.L.-C.I.O.
The labor federation's executive council called Marland an avowed enemy of collective bargaining for teachers' on Aug. 5 and expressed alarm and concern over published reports of his impending nomination.
Marland said in an interview he merely told unions that state law forbade him to bargain exclusively with any one teacher organization.
White House conservatives have also raised questions about Marland's liberal views on school desegregation and federal aid to education, H.E.W. sources said.
Marland supported busing in Pittsburgh and wants more federal school dollars for disadvantaged children. He calls himself a political independent.
President Nixon has condemned busing of school children to achieve racial balance and favors reform of education aid programs before additional outlays are committed.
Marland's views appear to parallel those of James E. Allen Jr., who was fired as education commissioner June 10. Terrell Bell is now acting commissioner.
Starting salaries are about $9,000 a year.

So You Want To Be...
By ERNIE HOOD
That steak, corn, bread and ice cream you had for dinner last night didn't just show up in your grocery store by magic. They were produced using modern farming techniques, many of them devised by people in the challenging field of agricultural engineering.
Agricultural engineers use basic engineering principles to develop equipment and methods that improve the efficiency and economy of production, processing and distribution of food and other agricultural products.
They are concerned primarily with the design of farm machinery, equipment and structures; utilization of electrical energy on farms and in food and feed processing plants; conservation and management of soil and water resources; and design and operation of processing equipment to prepare agricultural products for market.
They usually specialize in a particular area of work, such as research and development, design, testing and application, production, sales or management.
A bachelor's degree is the generally accepted educational requirement. It is offered by some 265 colleges, universities and engineering schools through the country.
In a typical four-year agricultural engineering curriculum, the first two years are spent studying basic science—math, physics and chemistry—and the humanities, social sciences and English. The last two years are devoted chiefly to studies in specific engineering courses.
Most of the 12,000 to 15,000 agricultural engineers in the United States are employed in private industry—especially by manufacturers of farm equipment and specialized lines of field, barnyard, processing and household equipment. The federal government employs about 700, chiefly in the Soil Conservation Service and Agricultural Research Service of the Department of Agriculture.
Employment of agricultural engineers is expected to grow moderately through the 1970s. This will result from increased mechanization of farm operations, more emphasis on conservation of resources, an expanding population's demand for food and fiber and wider use of agricultural products and wastes as industrial raw materials.
Additional engineers also will be needed to work on problems concerning the enormous energy and power

What a thought for this age... for men who literally carry our lives in their hands. At best we are confused. The time-table is tipped in favor of total destruction. Why, oh why, will wise men "deaf-ear" God?

been taken by the state government of New South Wales in its effort to overcome a critical teacher shortage.
Independently, the state's Education Department reached the same conclusions about tension as the survey. It advertised: "Teach in the happy country down under."

The response was astounding, with 11,000 Americans asking further information to the one insertion advertisement in newspapers in seven cities, New York, Washington, St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans and Chicago.

The fact that the psychological survey was commissioned at all shows at least the growing awareness here of America as a source for migrants. The survey was aimed at improving counseling techniques and giving better service to intending migrants.

The investigation covered 129 American migrants, all of whom had been in Australia for more than three months but less than a year.

Fifty-three of these interviewed were married with children, 29 married with no children, and 37 single people.

The families were almost unanimous: They wanted to escape the tension and pressure of life in the United States, they said.

Other motivations included race problems, smog, pollution, overcrowding and even traffic jams.

These subjects were mentioned, too, by the young marrieds and the singles, though their main reason for coming to Australia was a wish to travel and to experience life in another country.

According to the probe, the Americans were better educated than the average migrant.

They found it easy to find jobs but, even though briefed by Australian immigration officers in the United States, still found the salary drop a shock.

Average basic wage for a bank manager is $6,028 annually, for a design draftsman $5,300, and for bricklayers, plumbers and truck drivers $4,077.

Few of them complained about it, though. They felt the lower salaries had equivalent buying power and, in any case, were compensated by the climate, physical environment and quieter pace of life in Australia.

Would they stay in Australia? Most said it was too early to decide.

The American migrant return rate has been double the average in the last 10 years—one in four leaving. The suggestion is that greater affluence and accustomed mobility play a large part.

This is supported by the fact that of the people interviewed, 93 per cent said they would advise others to migrate to Australia.

Though no hard-sell approach has been made in the United States—apart from the campaign for teachers—the Australian government is now subsidizing passage fares from America to a much greater extent.

Migrants can expect up to $375.20 toward each adult fare and up to $403.20 for each child's fare.

As assisted passage migrants, newcomers must stay for two years or repay the subsidy.

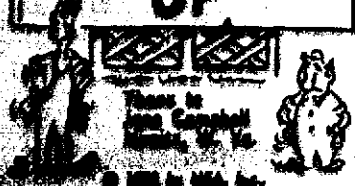

The survey found that fewer than 10 per cent of American migrants came from the South which, to some commentators here, exploded the theory that Australia is attracting white racist Americans.

It is true, however, that assisted passages are open only to persons of European descent, which has resulted in a Jamaican in Britain submitting a complaint to the Race Relations Board there.

Also, nonwhites are bound by more stringent residential qualifications.

Rules Out Voting in 2 Primaries

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — James Blair, general counsel for the state Democratic party, said Thursday his opinion was that a person could not vote in the Republican preferential primary Aug. 25 then vote Sept. 8 in the Democratic party's general primary.

Blair made the reply in answer to an opinion sought by Luke A. Moorman Jr., chairman of the Pulaski County Democratic Committee.

Blair noted that Democratic party chairman Charles D. Matthews of North Little Rock was out of state and that Blair's answer was strictly his own and did not represent the opinion of the Democratic State Committee or the Democratic Executive Committee.

Blair pointed out that Act 465 of 1969 provides that it is a felony, punishable by imprisonment for not less than one year or a $5,000 fine, or both, for a person to vote in more than one party primary on the same day or for candidates for more than one political party.

"Inasmuch as a general primary is a runoff or continuation of the preferential primary, to vote either Republican or Democrat and then to vote in the runoff of the other party for a different candidate for a given office could well be interpreted as a violation of the offense for voting for candidates of more than one political party," Blair said.

In addition, Blair said, "it is a felony for any election official or other persons to fraudulently permit any person to vote illegally."

"It would be my strong recommendation that all Democrats stay out of the Republican primary, either preferential or general, and that all Democratic election officials conscientiously attempt to prevent any person voting in the Republican primary from voting in either the Democratic preferential or general primary," Blair said.

Blair said that under current election laws, the Democratic party can establish its own qualifications for the people voting in its primary.

Earlier this year, the Democratic State Committee called a special meeting and interpreted party rules as saying that "any person may vote in any Democratic primary election held in this state without challenge."

This interpretation was made so that those who supported George Wallace's presidential bid in 1968 could vote in the Democratic primary.

Thomas Glaze of Little Rock, chairman of the Election Laws Institute, quoted the Democratic party rule interpretation and said this had created confusion among the voters. Glaze told a news conference, however, that it would be up to the party to make a final determination on this issue.

Blair said the Wallace interpretation was one of party rules and not one of state election law. He said the party could not violate the state election code and that any interpretations could not violate the law.

bear with extreme caution.

Temporarily, at least, Soviet leaders seem to want to turn their attention away from Europe, to mark time there. They are concerned about Red China and Asia, but China may be more an irritation than a real worry.

Historically, Moscow has liked to take care of one big project at a time, having a distaste for chewing too many large bites simultaneously. It would seem that for some long time to come the center of Soviet attention will be the Middle East. That should make the Middle East the No. 1 problem of the United States, Vietnam notwithstanding.

Soviet leaders have just briefed the top brass of their Warsaw Pact clients on the whereof of the agreement with West Germany, whose clauses on mutual guarantees of frontiers and renunciation of force mean little. The idea of West Germany alone threatening Moscow is ridiculous, no matter how scary Soviet propaganda can be on that subject.

There are other aims. One is economic: the need of the Russians for West German know-how and goods. Another may stem from an anxiety for stability on the immediate western borders because of Moscow's internal economic and political problems. The Russians have a 24th Community Party Congress coming up next March—a year late—which could bring clashes on both economic and political fronts between entrenched party bureaucrats and the reform-minded element, some of the latter even seeking a bit of democratization.

But internal strains are nothing new to Soviet leaders and have not seemed much of a deterrent to pursuit of foreign policy goals. One of these goals can be to nail down the status quo in Europe. In Eastern Europe, the Brezhnev doctrine, asserting the right to interfere in any Communist-ruled country, secures the European buffer zone. At the same time, the treaty with West Germany points in the direction of eliminating potential troubles on the Soviet Bloc's western flank while Moscow pursues imperialist aims in the Middle East and Mediterranean areas.

The Russians are not supporting Egypt in an expensive way against Israel because they love the color of Gamal Abdel Nasser's mustache. Russian czars and commissars have always had hungry ideas about the Middle East and the Mediterranean, and there is no reason to assume they have suddenly reformed and abandoned those notions.

The area—and a measure of control over its enormous reserves of oil—is hugely important to the United States and the Atlantic allies, whose military leaders react in alarm to Soviet shows of strength.

The road to domination of the Middle East is through its top leader. In Kremlin eyes, an untidy situation may exist in the area. Nasser, while using Soviet largesse, resists the Communist embrace. At the same time, he

Coffelt Is a Perennial Candidate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Kenneth Coffelt is a perennial candidate.

This year, Coffelt is a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, the same position he sought unsuccessfully in 1968.

In 1966, he ran for attorney general.

In 1964, he failed in an attempt to get on the ballot as an independent candidate for attorney general.

In 1962, he ran for governor. He lost the 1968 race in a runoff with Bill Wells. Why did he decide to run again?

"My momma didn't raise any quitters," Coffelt said.

Coffelt said he did not believe the fact that he had lost in the past would hurt his chances in the Aug. 25 primary. He added that name recognition might be a plus in his campaign.

Coffelt, 62, said he believes there is a "good possibility" he will win the nomination without a runoff.

"I believe the Arkansas Democrats, when taking everything into consideration, will conclude that I am more capable than the other candidates of carrying the Democratic banner in November and ousting the incompetent, extravagant and phony Rockefeller administration," Coffelt said.

During his campaign, Coffelt has concentrated on Sterling Cockrill and the administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller. Cockrill switched to the Republican party this spring and is a candidate for lieutenant governor.

"The principal issue in the Democratic primary in the lieutenant governor's race is which one of the candidates is the most capable of carrying the Democratic banner to victory and defeating the Rockefeller-turncoat Cockrill combine," Coffelt said.

He says that if Rockefeller is re-elected to a third term "you might as well disband the Democratic party."

Coffelt says he has been practicing law since he was 21 and that he has "tried cases in every courthouse in Arkansas except four."

Coffelt married the former Bessie Watson more than 40 years ago and the couple have three daughters.

PEOPLE ARE FUNNY—MORE PROOF

Some odd traits of human behavior are indicated in a report from the safety bureau of the U. S. Department of Transportation which shows, on the one hand, that not one person wearing a combination lap belt and shoulder harness has been killed in a car accident at speeds up to 60 miles an hour.

But on the other hand, it is estimated that only 20 or 30 percent of all drivers and passengers who have seat belts available actually wear them, and only 4 percent having shoulder harnesses wear them while motoring. Expert studies have consistently proved that seat belts have been saving lives and preventing more serious injuries ever since laws were enacted to require their use.

A recent story by the U. S. Safety Bureau estimated that 2,000 persons saved their lives in a single year because they wore the seat belts and another 8,000 more would have survived had they buckled up. Cornell University studies have indicated that from 8,000 to 10,000 lives could be saved each year if shoulder harnesses were worn.

Seat belts and harnesses are now standard equipment on automobiles but there is a continued reluctance on the part of drivers and passengers to wear protective equipment. What can be done by law enforcement people and equipment experts if the motoring public by and large, stubbornly refuses to protect itself from injury and death? — Jackson (Miss.) Clarion-Ledger

Very Few GIs Picked Up in Drug Raids

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon official reports 58 narcotics raids during the first half of the year netted only 29 U.S. servicemen in Vietnamese bars, houses of prostitution and private homes where dangerous drugs were available.

That testimony Thursday by Frank A. Bartimo, the Pentagon's assistant general counsel for manpower and reserve affairs, prompted Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., to ask about other witnesses' reports that operators of such places were tipped in advance so Americans could flee.

Bartimo told Dodd's subcommittee he had "heard the same thing but I cannot indulge in rumors or guesses."

"You scare me," Dodd said. "I don't think you yet believe it is a serious problem."

"I repeat," Bartimo said, "I do believe it is a very serious problem" and such things are "undoubtedly true—but I'm giving you hard, responsible statistics."

Dodd, saying he wants to help the drug victims, contended "it has taken four years to get the Pentagon to recognize there is a problem."

While Dodd's subcommittee was completing its latest hearings, the alcoholism and narcotics subcommittee headed by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, was said to be considering a possible visit to Vietnam, perhaps only by staff aides, to investigate the situation on the spot.

Vice Adm. William P. Mack, head of a Pentagon task force on drug policy, told the Dodd panel: "I do not know of any case where the national security has been jeopardized by drug abuse."

He also said there is "no evidence of drug involvement" although he personally feels drugs played a part in the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam. He responded when questioned about a former Army squad leader's testimony earlier this year that some squad members smoked marijuana the night before the unit participated in action leading to the alleged massacre.

Mack also said that while there may be some instances where some platoon or squad members might endanger colleagues by using drugs, "we don't at this moment view that what we are trying to do in Vietnam is endangered."

Mack reported Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has approved the Pentagon task force's recommendations which include a trial program of amnesty for drug users who volunteer to try to rid themselves of the habit.

Tension Main Reason That Many Americans Migrate to Australia

By IAN MACAUSLAND
Associated Press Writer

SYDNEY (AP) — Tension in the United States is the main reason for an increase in the number of Americans migrating to Australia. This is the conclusion of a survey by the psychology section of the government's Immigration Department.

The investigation indicated that unlike the majority of the 1.6 million migrants—mainly from Britain and Europe—who have settled in Australia since World War II, Americans are not seeking higher salaries, better housing or even job advancement.

"They just want to get away," said an immigration official.

The number of American migrants is still small: The estimated 3,600 this year is fewer than 2 per cent of Australia's annual intake. But it is increasing; 10 years ago only 780 Americans came here as settlers.

Australia has maintained a hands-off policy toward the United States as a migrant PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP) — Meeting in an atmosphere of fiesta, President Nixon and President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz agreed Thursday night to end 122 years of border disputes resulting from the shifting Rio Grande.

The two chief executives hoped to end territorial controversy forever between their two nations by setting the boundary between Texas and Mexico in the center of the Rio Grande.

Since the end of the Mexican War in 1848, the constant shifting of the Rio Grande has generated endless squabbling by putting small parcels of land first in one country and then in the other. After the presidential announcement, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen the two governments had worked out a system of "compensating factors" which would come into play whenever the river bed shifts.

Details of the agreement were to be disclosed in a communique later today.

Ziegler said at present one major area is still in dispute, a tract of about 2,000 acres near

Egypt Rejects Plan of U. S. Surveillance During a Cease-fire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egypt today rejected American surveillance of the Middle East cease-fire by satellite and U2 spy plane, calling the plan a "pretext for espionage." Political circles in Israel said this showed Cairo had "something to hide."

Such reconnaissance, "even if undertaken over Israeli-held territories, could provide Israel with additional advantages in the present delicate circumstances," said Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al Ahran.

The Egyptian statement came as a surprise. When the United States announced earlier in the week that it was undertaking reconnaissance and had informed Egypt, it was generally understood that it was being done with Cairo's consent.

Al Ahran said Egypt's stand had been known all along. It added that the United States "must adopt a neutral stand regarding this issue" if it is interested in seeing peace in the Middle East.

Al Ahran said Egypt also had turned down an American suggestion for Soviet high-level reconnaissance. But both the U.S. suggestion and the Egyptian rejection were formalities because the Soviet Union already has large numbers of military personnel on duty with Egypt's air and missile forces, and needs no high-flying planes or spaceships to keep it abreast of developments.

In Israel, opposition parties demanded that the Israeli parliament be recalled from its summer vacation for an urgent debate on Israeli-American relations, and the state radio said the lawmakers probably would return to Jerusalem on Monday.

The opposition was expected to try to exploit the rift between the U.S. and Israeli governments over Washington's refusal to give full backing to the Israeli charges that Egypt has violated the cease-fire by moving SAM antiaircraft missiles closer to the Suez Canal truce line.

The Arab parties to the cease-fire, Jordan's King Hussein and Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, were meeting in Cairo to discuss strategy at the coming indirect peace

510,000 Democrats and 60,000 GOPs Expected to Vote on Tuesday

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Auditor Jimmie "Red" Jones guesses that about 510,000 Arkansians will turn out for Tuesday's primaries, but he says that speculating on the vote total is "like predicting when the world will come to an end."

Jones, keeper of the state's voter registration figures, bases his estimate on a comparison of vote totals and the number of registered voters in 1968.

In 1968, 769,704 voters were registered to participate in the primaries, and 444,122 cast ballots, 414,877 for six Democratic gubernatorial candidates.

This year, 821,122 were registered to vote by July 1.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has predicted that 75,000 to 100,000 of those will turn out for the Republican gubernatorial primary, more than double the 29,245 who participated in 1968.

Neal Sox Johnson, GOP executive director, says he would not be "disappointed" if between 50,000 and 60,000 vote to decide among Rockefeller and his three Republican rivals.

Among the Democratic candidates, former Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Speaker Hayes McClerkin of the Arkansas House say they believe that about 400,000 will vote in the primary. Bill Wells of Hermitage, another candidate, thinks 350,000.

McClerkin and Wells say that one reason they believe this year's vote total for eight Democratic candidates may fall below that for six in 1968 is that more persons might be attracted by the Republican primary. Both also say they don't think there has been much interest in the campaign.

In addition, Wells says, he thinks the GOP primary will draw a greater number of voters, siphoning them from the Democratic race.

One of the imponderables in forecasting the vote totals of each primary is the anti-Fau-

Says Thornton Wants No. 1 Spot

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Sen. Richard Earl Griffin, a Democratic candidate for attorney general, said Thursday that if his opponent, Ray Thornton Jr., wanted the number one ballot position in Pulaski County, "I'll concede to him."

Thornton contends that his representative drew the number one ballot position, but that his name has been placed second on voting machines in Pulaski County.

Moscow in Mood for Peacemaking

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What's the Kremlin mood these days? Is peace about to break out?

The Russians show an interest in easing the danger in the Middle East. Moscow has signed a treaty with West Germany renouncing use of force. There are hints that Moscow is listening to American proposals at the strategic arms talks. In Europe, the Kremlin plumps for relaxation.

All this might suggest inclinations toward peaceableness. Yet there is something about Moscow's attitude which calls to mind the old Russian adage about approaching a friendly

Lobbying of Senators Denounced

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing a campaign by senators opposed to the Vietnam war, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., said today he will seek to bar members of Congress from pressuring colleagues through advertising.

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Dole said he will try to amend a 1946 act regulating lobbying to include congressmen who solicit funds to bring pressure on their House and Senate colleagues.

The amendment is based on activities on behalf of the McGovern-Hatfield proposal to force withdrawal of U.S. forces from Indochina by the end of 1971.

"Is it proper for a senator to seek to influence other senators by drumming up outside pressure on them, or by seeking to influence them himself while acting in the dual capacities of senator and lobbyist?" Dole asked.

He said senators involved in the activities of the Amendment-to-End-the-War Committee have solicited and collected contributions whose main purpose has been to influence the vote on the amendment.

While not contending any violation of law by his colleagues, Dole said there is no doubt sponsors of the amendment have broken new ground in the field of lobbying. And he said the practice may endanger the Senate.

He said he intends to propose legislation clarifying the law. "The public interest demands that firm lines of demarcation be drawn and currently existing loopholes be closed," he said.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces within sight of Phnom Penh have slammed mortars into Cambodian defense lines across the Mekong river from the royal palace. A Cambodian spokesman says the mortar fire was just a probe to check out defenses and draw them out, he added.

The Cambodian forces retreated about two miles southward to Prek Krabao from Prek Tameak late Thursday after Prek Tameak was overrun by heavily armed enemy forces. The Cambodian spokesman said the withdrawal was a tactical move to permit allied bombers to hammer the enemy.

Only small ground skirmishes were reported in South Vietnam, and the U.S. Command began cutting back its B52 raids. The Pentagon announced Thursday that the giant high-altitude bombers would be reduced to an average of 1,000 sorties a month, a sortie being one flight by one bomber. The average rate recently has been 1,400 a month, informed sources said.

Qualified sources said all B52 raids in the future would be flown from U-Tapao Air Base in Thailand. The B52s that have been flying from Guam and Okinawa will be held in reserve.

One source linked the reduction to President Nixon's troop withdrawals.

The cut in B52 operations is the third since January 1969, when the number of sorties was at a peak of 1,800 a month.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command in Saigon said Viet Cong gunners shot down a U.S. Army observation helicopter 12 miles outside the Vietnamese capital, killing one American and wounding two Americans and two South Vietnamese.

For nearly eight weeks, 75 percent of the B52 sorties have been flown against North Vietnamese supply depots, staging areas and infiltration corridors along the Ho Chi Minh trail in eastern Laos and similar enemy targets in the northern provinces of South Vietnam.

Informed sources said the eight-jet Stratofortresses flew 30 to 35 sorties today, compared to slightly under 50 a day prior to the cutback.

Killing of Officer Called Political
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Police Chief Bruce Baker says the third fatal shooting of a policeman in the San Francisco Bay area in two months was a political assassination.

"This is a technique that has been suggested by various underground newspapers," Baker said at a news conference about the shooting of Patrolman Ronald T. Tsukamoto, 28, early Thursday.

"Various speeches... have incited such acts," he said. The chief said the officer was issuing a routine warning to a motorcyclist who had made a U-turn on University Avenue when a tall black man walked up, said a few conversational words, then pulled a revolver and fired point blank.

"There is no doubt that this shooting was political," Baker said. "We call it an act of assassination."

Fight Eases Near Capital of Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces within sight of Phnom Penh slammed mortars into Cambodian defense lines across the Mekong river from the royal palace, a military spokesman reported today. But hard fighting reported Thursday within six miles of the capital eased off.

Heavy losses were reported on both sides. The spokesman said at least 19 Cambodian troops were killed and 124 wounded. He claimed 500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed, a claim that foreign observers generally viewed with skepticism.

The spokesman said while some enemy troops fired a few mortars into government positions directly across the mile-wide river from the royal palace, the bulk of the enemy force was about six miles northeast of the capital. The mortar fire "was just a probe to check out defenses and draw them out," he added.
